Join us as we watch a documentary film produced by With My Own Two Hands which examines the impact of clean water on villages in Kenya. See how water in a rural community transformed a girl's life from the slums of Kibera. Witness the beautiful, moving story between a young girl and her ailing mother.

After the film, we will have a question and answer time with the producers of the film, including a conversation with Lindsey Plumier, the CEO of With My Own Two Hands.

Special thanks to the Department of Social Work, INTO UAB, and the Institute for Human Rights and for their cosponsorship and support for this event!
